Best Practice - 1

1. Title of the Practice

Learning from doing (Experiential Learning)

2. Objectives of the Practice

- To increase the problem-solving skill of Students in the classroom as well as in the real world.
- To develop the out of box-thinking capabilities of students in decision making
- To provide awareness among students on how to do the business in real world
- To develop how to implement theoretical knowledge in actual business as well as in life.
- To improve the skills like Marketing, Finance, Manufacturing, etc. to become an Entrepreneur
- To increase the students' leadership skills, management skills, teamwork, and ICT skill.

3. The Context

"What we have to learn, we learn by doing" (Aristotle) means learning by doing. Back in the first half of the 20th century, two American educators, John Dewey, and William Hurd Kilpatrick, formulated the theory that "learning is best when it is the result of significant experience." The learning pyramid is shown below

We engage our students in experiential learning for more learning and lifelong memorization of the concepts. We performed different activities which emphasized Experiential Learning. ATESTC is located in the Tribal area 80-90% of students are from rural areas. Such students have no or low exposure to the business.

4. Practice

The main goal of this institute is student growth. You need to focus on experiential learning. We are doing the following activities to attract more attention.

A. Industry visit:

The institute looks at how people run their businesses, what machines they need, what departments are involved, how they break down problems into smaller problems, and how they are tackled. We organize industry visits in various sectors to get business ideas about where we stand.

B. Field visit:

We organize visits to local markets for our students so that they can interact with them and learn real-life skills that they will practice for the rest of their lives.

C. Workshops by Industry Experts:

Hold soft skills workshops to learn more about student skills. To learn advanced concepts, we host workshops that gather hands-on experience from industry experts to learn about the latest trends in the industry.

Considering the above citations, we would like to try to create a good research environment within the institute.
